Wisdom of Life Never Finished

Once there is old man, wife died, but live happily with young son, small land, some goat, good ass, and with many rice. Bamboo rampant all ways.

One day many horsemen advancing chaos across field, squash rice, squash goat, squash ass, old man is sad, heavy heart, saying "No ass to plow, no rice to plant, we starve to death now."

But son saying "Is not finished yet. Wisdom of life never finished."

Old man think son very big loony.

Next day big noise at door, old man open little crack, see big Samurai, Samurai say, "Emperor sorry, we knacker your farm chase bad invaders, so here sack rice and good horse."

"See" say son.
